Since Mr. and Mrs. Amey came to Circleville there have been a major fire, flood, train wreck and now the quake in the Imperial Valley. Mrs. Amey is the former Eloise Hanley.

EL CENTRO, Cal., May 20 — Wrecked by a mighty earth upheaval which brought fire and death and the injury of many persons, the vast Imperial Valley in southeastern California today faced a new peril in a threatened water famine.

Successful earthquakes continued to shake this rich agricultural area today as the official list of dead reached eight and volunteers searched the debris of devastated cities for possible additional victims of the greatest disaster in the history of the valley. Two hundred persons were unofficially reported as having received injuries of various degrees last Saturday night when the earth began to tremble. But the majority were able to leave the hospitals after treatment.

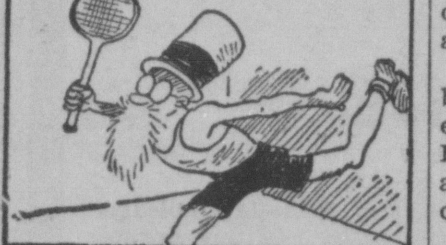

A supply of typhoid vaccine was rushed to valley communities from the State Health Service at Sacramento because of fear that the seriously curtailed water supply might become contaminated. The worst stricken cities were NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 20—Robert Heineman, 16-year-old Abington High School junior, pleaded guilty today to firing the bullet that killed his classmate, pretty Edith Snyder, 16, as she studied her lessons in her home last April 25.

The clean-cut, handsome boy faces a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair. He entered his plea less than 30 minutes after the Montgomery County grand jury indicted him on a charge of murder.

With the German Armies on the Western Front, May 20—At the invitation of Chancellor Hitler, I stand today amidst the clamor and deafening roar of a fast-moving battle, eye-witness to the fact that the German air force is setting a tornado pace, with highly-gear German armies sweeping across Belgium and France towards England. "On to Paris! On to London!" Those are the German watch-words as thousands of gray-clad soldiers, afoot and mounted on modern engines of war, pour westward in endless streams. My few hours at the front already has shown me that the air-plane has become as indispensable as the tank among the newest, highly modernized weapons of conflict. Whatever Hitler's plans may be, to a non-combatant observer it is evident that something tantamount to a race for Paris among the German right and left wings and center has developed.

This has happened despite the efforts of German military quarters to hold in check any undue enthusiasm. Counter Efforts Expected The German command has adopted this attitude on the assumption that appointment of General Maxime Weygand as Allied commander-in-chief fore-

Dozen Injured And Much Property Wrecked By Freak Storm

By International News Service
Authorities in numerous Ohio communities today were trying to get an accurate estimate of the damage inflicted by a freak wind and rain storm that swept the state yesterday afternoon.

More than a dozen persons were injured and property damage in the Cleveland area alone totaled more than $50,000. Countless store windows were blown in by the wind which at times reached gale proportions. In the outlying sections, the heaviest damage was wrought by trees that were uprooted and crashed into dwellings and automobiles.

Three Cleveland motorists were injured, one seriously, when their automobile was struck by a fall. (Continued on Page Three)

TOLL IN STATE MOTOR TRAFFIC SOARS TO NINE

By International News Service
A least nine persons were killed in Ohio traffic accidents over the weekend, a survey showed today. Only one of the victims was a pedestrian.

Frank Vlasak and Lucille Miller, both of Canton, were fatally injured when the car driven by Mrs. Emma Vlasak crashed into a pole at North Canton. Mrs. Vlasak escaped uninjured.

Three persons were killed in a head-on collision south of Dayton. They were William Reid, 27, of Uhrichsville; Wanda Bruce, 23, Dayton, and Dr. Edward J. Bueshel, Louisville, O. When their car side-swiped another south of Lebanon, Everett Stepp, 20, of Foster, O., and William Whalen, 21, of Murdock, O., were fatally injured. Lewis Peugh, 57, was killed at Mt. Vernon when struck down by a hit-skip motorist. William Pilling, 17, was killed at Cincinnati when his car was struck by another as he assertedly failed to halt for a stop sign. Five other youths, on a hayride with Pilling, were injured.

FOR the first time in history barbed wire barricades are being erected in London streets about principal government buildings—ostensibly intended as a defense against possible assault by land. This photo shows a wire fence erected in front of the admiralty building. Note soldier on guard. The tower in the distance houses Big Ben, famed city of London clock.

Churchill Calls On All To Battle For Home Island; Extension Of "Fifth Column" Roundup Stressed By Newspapers

LONDON, May 20—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's dramatic warning of a coming "battle for our island, for all that Britain is..." brought swift action today to buttress the nation's home defenses.

Churchill in a radio broadcast calling on Britons to fight and die in the struggle against "servitude and shame," minced no words in warning of an ultimate German attack against England.

This and the apparent shifting of the main German attack in France against St. Quentin—seemingly aimed at a rapid Nazi drive against the channel ports—sharply brought home to the public Britain's own peril.

Newspapers renewed urgent demands for immediate concentration of home defenses and for other precautionary measures such as extension of the "fifth column" roundup even to aged enemy aliens who are now exempt. At present only enemy aliens between the ages of 16 and 60 are being interned.

Over the weekend British authorities pressed forward with their stern measures against "fifth columnists" and a possible invasion by German parachute troops. Armed guards were posted at still more strategic points and machine gun nests were established at many places which might be paratroopers' objectives.

Churchill was expected to give a resume of the present situation at the reopening of Parliament tomorrow and indicate the government's first steps for industrial conscription and speed-up of the output of war industries.

Political circles interpreted Churchill's speech as indicating the government would assume control of privately owned factories producing war equipment to intensify production.

"In this supreme emergency," Churchill declared, "we shall not hesitate to take every step, even the most drastic, to call forth from our people the last ounce and the last inch of effort of which they are capable."

"Whether it be property or labor, it is nothing compared to the struggle for life..."

BOYS, PARENTS, FRIENDS AT ANNUAL SCOUT-O-RAMA

Numerous Circleville and Pickaway County Boy Scouts and their parents and friends attended the annual Scout-O-Rama Saturday night in the Ohio State Fairgrounds coliseum. Although none of the local youths was able to win in competition the evening provided outstanding entertainment.

Grain Prices Go Six Cents Higher

CHICAGO, May 20—Grain prices on the Board of Trade reacted favorably today to the pegged prices requested Saturday by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, with wheat gaining as much as six cents on a fairly active market.

The price pegging, ordered by directors of the big board, was approved generally by traders, who said it halted the war hysteria which sent wheat into a 34 cent collapse last week.

Prices were also pegged at Minneapolis, Kansas City and Duluth, stabilizing the American market generally.

Typical comment on the pegged prices was given by a leading commission house which said in its morning grain letter: "The setting of the average of Saturday's close as minimum prices on all grains until further notice will give the trade a breathing spell in which to catch up the loose ends and attempt a sane appraisal of the purely domestic worth of our products instead of continuing the hysterical race of last week to divest themselves of all holdings without regard to real intrinsic values."

After an hour of trading under the pegged prices, wheat ruled five to six cents higher, corn was up two and three quarters to three and one quarter cents, oats gained one and three-eighths to one and five-eighths and rye went up as much as four cents.

LaGUARDIA, KNOX BEING RUMORED FOR U. S. POSTS

WASHINGTON, May 20—Reports that President Roosevelt plans to set up a "national defense cabinet" through changes in the war department and navy secretariats were persistent in Washington today.

According to the reports, which were received without comment at the White House, the President may offer Mayor LaGuardia of New York the post of secretary of war and name Col. Frank Knox of Chicago as secretary of the navy.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, refused to confirm or deny the widespread rumors that Col. Knox, the G.O.P. vice-presidential candidate in 1936, would be named to head the navy.

Charles A. Edison, present secretary of the navy, was expected to resign within the next 30 days in order to campaign for the governorship of New Jersey.

MARKET FIRMS WITH LEADERS UP FOUR POINTS

NEW YORK, May 20 — The stock market firmed today. Leaders were up one to more than four points in the first few minutes of trading, but gains were cut down gradually later.

Steels, chemicals, aviation and motors were in the van of the initial upswing. The volatile Wright Aero jumped 5½ points but lost half of this later, while Allied Chemical's spurt of 4½ was slashed to slightly more than a point.

Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each were up more than three, and Crucible and U. S. Steel almost as much before their rise was checked.

General Weygand Replaces Gamelin, Tries To Consolidate Battle To Permit Attempt To Halt Foes

NEW YORK, May 20—The British radio today made "what seemed to be a tacit admittance that the Germans have taken the French city of St. Quentin," the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York reported.

PARIS, May 20—Anti-aircraft firing was heard in the Paris region late this afternoon.

BERLIN, May 20—Further Allied retreats in France and continuance of Nazi Germany's relentless drive toward the channel ports were claimed in an official communique issued by the German high command today.

In Belgium, the Dendre River has been crossed, it was said, and the Escaut (Scheldt) River reached. (EDITOR'S NOTE: This indicated that the Germans are driving toward Courtrai, where only the Lys River and extreme western Belgian fortifications stand between them and the channel.)

PARIS, May 20—With General Maxime Weygand, new Allied commander-in-chief, as yet unable to consolidate the battle on the Western Front sufficiently to enable a French counter-offensive, German mechanized forces moved relentlessly toward the channel today.

While sporadic Nazi onslaughts were thrown back along the Aisne, German progress in the vicinity of Cambrai continued but the immediate threat to Paris, so grave throughout the week appeared to have diminished.

An official military spokesman freely admitted continuance of the Nazi advance. "There is no question of concealing the fact," the spokesman said. "The situation in the region east of Cambrai and around Landrecies is extremely grave."

This statement followed issuance of a French war communique stating Allied troops succeeded in hurling back German forces which crossed the Aisne River near Rethel in France and that Allied forces now are fighting north of St. Quentin to halt the German drive there.

The impression prevailed in Paris that the new commander-in-chief of the Allied forces would launch a major counter-offensive in a maximum effort to turn the tide.

Gamelin Replaced Weygand, who succeeds General Maurice Gamelin, arrived in Paris Saturday and assumed new post yesterday. Previously he was commander of the Allied army in the Near East.

Here is the text of the French communique: "Our troops are fighting vigorously north of St. Quentin to check the enemy push. "In the neighborhood of Rethel, enemy elements which succeeded in crossing the Aisne were thrown back during the night. "In the region of Montmedy, German attacks were renewed with intensity. They were repulsed."

"During the night our bombing aircraft pursued with ferocity their plan for disorganizing enemy supplies."

"East of Cambrai," said the spokesman, "the battle is raging with the same intensity. There is no sign that the enemy has slackened."

"We are unable to fix a definite point of the battle, which is extremely confused. "German, French and British tanks and mobile units all are intermingled. They are continually (Continued on Page Three)

Counter Efforts Expected
The German command has adopted this attitude on the assumption that appointment of General Maxime Weygand as Allied commander-in-chief fore-shadows a rapid hardening of French resistance, with the likelihood of imminent desperate counter-attacks from Central France. As far as I can see, Hitler already has anticipated everything and is prepared to meet any development with the aim of inflicting a smashing defeat on the bulk of the French army in open battle.

The troops seem to sense his presence in the sphere of action. Although many persons have asked whether we know just where Hitler is, naturally we cannot answer.

I smell powder and the reek of blood-soaked bandages, for wounded of all kinds and prisoners are in evidence at every turn. I cannot give my present specific location, but with Hitler's dramatic touch we were taken to a vantage point for observation promptly at 6:30 a. m.

Deputy sheriffs found Derby, suffering from exhaustion, in a field a mile and a half from the scene of the shooting after a three and a half hour search. They said Derby apparently had run until he dropped, and then crawled until he was exhausted. Sheriff Harley Loveland said he had admitted the shooting.

Coroner H. M. Warner, who conducted an immediate investigation, declared that Derby and Mrs. Whitcomb had been arguing about a marker for the grave of Mrs. Whitcomb's mother. Mrs. Whitcomb then ordered Derby from the house. When she followed the aged

Auxiliary Post Plans Poppy Sale Saturday

Poppy Day will be observed in Circleville and throughout the nation on May 25, the Saturday before Memorial Day. Mrs. Goldie Byers, president of Howard Hall Post No. 134 of the American Legion Auxiliary, announced Monday. On that day all Americans will be asked to wear memorial poppies in tribute to the World War dead and to aid the living victims of the war.

The little red memorial flowers will be distributed here by women and girls of the Local Unit, under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Mettler, chairman of the Poppy Day committee. All contributions received for the poppies will go to Legion and Auxiliary welfare work for the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

"We feel that Poppy Day will have increased meaning to America this year," said Mrs. Byers, "because renewed warfare in Europe has renewed the memory of those boys of ours who gave their lives 'over there' twenty-two years ago. It is for them that we put on the poppy each year, to show that we still remember and honor their sacrifices. It is the flower which grew where they fell and which now blooms on the coats of Americans who appreciate their service."

"Events of the last year have shown us clearly that to be secure the United States must have men ready and able to defend the country, willing to give their lives in its defense, if necessary. We can be thankful today that we had such men twenty-two years ago. From them we can draw inspiration for the patriotic service necessary to maintain our freedom and democracy against today's dangers. Wearing their flower over our hearts means that with in our hearts their love of America still lives."

HARRY CARTER ACCEPTS CLINTON COUNTY POST
Harry H. Carter of Williamsport, who will be graduated in June from Ohio State University, has been employed as coach at Kingman High School, Clinton County, to succeed James L. Hughes, who has resigned to accept a position in Morrow. Carter was an athlete when in the Williamsport High School.

Callihan, 19, 721 Maplewood Avenue, damaged the left rear bumper and fender of the Callihan car and the right front end of his own car. Patrolman Miller Fissell said that Lenidas failed to see the Callihan car until he was too close to stop.

RADIO BRIEFS
Walter Vaughn, heard on the "Johnny Presents" dramas, has replaced James Meighan in the lead role in "Against the Storm."
Virginia Payne's "Ma Perkins" series has added a number of new cast members. Included are Louise Fitch, Mary Frances Desmond and Cheer Brentson.

"Love Thy Neighbor" is the title of the picture Jack Benny and Fred Allen will make. Allen leaves for Hollywood June 6 with his entire cast including Bandleader Peter Van Steeden. The latter will have a substitute conductor handle the "Mr. District Attorney" music during his absence from New York.

CERTAIN POLICY NEEDED

Attack On Uncle Sam Not Easy Matter, Famous Flier Declares

WASHINGTON, May 20—President Roosevelt's foreign policy and armament program faced their first strong opposition today from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who warned the world of Germany's vast air power nearly two years ago.

In a nationally-broadcast address last night, Lindbergh accused "powerful elements" in America of war-mongering, and declared that the United States must first adopt a definite defense policy before attempting to carry one out.

Although he advocated a stronger army, navy and air force, the famous flier impliedly opposed the 50,000-plane program suggested to congress by the President, saying: "Until we have decided on a definite policy of defense, the mere construction of large numbers of aircraft will not be adequate for our national safety."

Speaking on the eve of the 13th anniversary of his renowned solo flight to Paris, Lindbergh urged a policy of pan-American cooperation for the defense of the Western Hemisphere, and complete aloofness from Europe's wars.

As Lindbergh spoke, Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long, reading a radio address prepared by Secretary of State Hull, sought support for the President's armament and foreign trade programs. Hull—kept from the microphone to await a trans-Atlantic telephone call from Ambassador William C. Bullitt in Paris—declared:

"We must increase our national strength, redouble our national vigor and courage, create for ourselves adequate means of defending this country's safety and security against any armed challenge."

Statement By President

Long also read a statement by Mr. Roosevelt. It said in part:

"The tragic events now transpiring bear eloquent testimony to the fundamental need for liberal economic policies in international relations, if, in the future, frictions, conflicts and wars among nations are to be averted... the promotion of liberal economic policies has been—and will continue to be—a vital part and dominant purpose of the foreign policy of the United States."

The speeches of the President and Hull were made to open foreign trade week.

Lindbergh, who once accepted from German Field Marshal Hermann Goering the Reich's highest decoration for foreigners, attacked the "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion that has been running rife these last few days."

"Let us not be confused by this talk of invasion by European aircraft," he said. "The air defense of America is as simple as the

STARS HAVE JITTERS

The recent decision of Actor Hugh Studebaker to leave the radio scene for several months brings to light an interesting fact about radio acting that is little appreciated.

Most people envy the stars not only for their prominent positions but firmly believe that reading a script is the world's easiest way of earning a dollar. But look at the case from the performer's angle, and you'll think twice before passing hasty judgment.

When an actor is before the microphone he knows that his performance must be flawless. In any other phase of the entertainment field, it's possible to cover up when a slip has been made or, as in the case of the movies, shoot a scene over. When when a line goes over the air it's irrevocably gone. Hugh is not the only actor affected by radio nerves. Such seasoned performers as Fibber McGee and Molly, Betty Winkler, Burns and Allen, and Rudy Vallee, to mention only a few, often have a bad case of jitters before broadcasting.

Series Of Quakes Shakes

El Centro, Brawley, Imperial, Holtville and Calexico. Although a preliminary survey indicated the damage would run into several millions of dollars, officials busy with relief work did not immediately begin to estimate the cost of the havoc wrought.

10 Days' Supply Available
A warning that the present supply of water would be sufficient for ten days "if used cautiously" came from M. J. Dowd, chief engineering inspector for the valley irrigation district. The situation was a particularly serious threat to the area's $30,000,000 crop of lettuce, cantaloupes and watermelons.

The official list of dead was posted as:
Mrs. Ruth E. Mullings, 29, Imperial; her daughter, Rudine, 17 months; another daughter, Wilora, 3; Juanita Blevens, 18, Imperial; John C. Moore, 19, Heber; Abel Portillo, 75, Brawley; Manuel Garcia, 25, Mexicali; an unidentified Chinese in Mexicali.

Mrs. Mullings and her two daughters were crushed to death when a brick grocery store in the Imperial business district collapsed under the stress of an earth movement described as "circular." Miss Blevens also died in the falling debris. Falling walls accounted for the other deaths.

The husband, Ben Mullings, managed to reach safety on the street with their 4-year-old son, Joel. They suffered slight injuries.
Fires Follow Quake
Numerous fires broke out immediately after the first quake, but in most cases were quickly brought under control.

At least eight square blocks of business district buildings in Brawley and El Centro will have to be cleared and rebuilt, it was said, while damage to buildings in other stricken communities may run as high as 50 percent. Not a plate glass window remained intact in the quake zone.

maneuvering, retreating and then attacking again."

According to the spokesman, the German armored columns taking part in this action consist of four or five divisions.

"Although they have lost part of their material and obviously must be fatigued," he added, "they show no signs of diminishing energy."

"They are still pushing in a northwesterly direction."

Mobile Attack Violent

"Hardest fighting is taking place around Landrecies and La fere, but it must be pointed out that the character of the struggle is extremely mobile."

"The advance tank units of the Germans are preceded by motorcycle squads which are wheeling and maneuvering, attacking and retreating."

Along with the continuous hammering by their armored units, the Germans opened up a terrific artillery barrage against the Montmedy fort, one of the key points of the French Maginot line.

Heavy artillery pounded the fort unrelentingly all day long, lifting the fire just long enough to permit infantry attacks.

These assaults, said the French spokesman, were "strong, bunched up in the traditional German manner and sustained."

"But," he added, "all were repulsed."

At the end of the day-long pounding, it was stated, the Germans at Montmedy had succeeded in taking only one of the small advanced casemats housing only machine guns.

From Montmedy along the Rhine, the spokesman added, all is quiet, while in northern Belgium Allied units are continuing strategic withdrawals satisfactorily and apparently unhampered with the exception of an attack on the British rearguard. This attack, however, was reported local in character and not strong.

duck and shake the dirt from our shoulders.

I and one other American have the distinction of being the sole civilians watching the battle from the German side dressed in pressed suits, white shirts and ties, in marked contrast to the uniforms surrounding us.

Allied Chances Slender

Initial observations in the area of operations seem to indicate to me that if the Allies hope to stand off the German onslaught by means of a counter-offensive, their chances appear slender.

For I passed endless miles of German troops and artillery columns, all equipped with the latest paraphernalia of war. Even the German foot troops are able to cover 60 miles a day—carrying only rifles, bayonets and hand grenades, while their knapsacks are transported on special trucks behind them.

According to German estimates, the Nazi advance after today's spread will move rapidly past Sheld to Ypres, with the center moving over Cambrai to the Paris region and the left wing forging South toward Abbeville.

All the spearheads sooner or later, it was predicted, will move in the direction of the channel ports.

Hitler's general staff has provided for every contingency. In many cases it was notable that the River Meuse was spanned by the Germans with emergency bridges prepared long before hand and thrown systematically into place as soon as the advance troops had chased the Allied forces from the opposite banks.

After talking with German staff officers, I can say that Hitler has initiated new battle tactics based on demoralization of the enemy by means of air force attacks to keep him relentlessly in retreat.

This is aimed at precipitating the collapse of the enemy through confusion, lack of a rear line or rallying point and through lack of coordination.

A lucky line of vision gave the two of us a good break today, but this happens once in a blue moon. My eyes are smarting from powder dust and my neck aches from watching the sky for Allied air raiders, which are now by far the most deadly menace, save for exploding long-range shells.

TWO MEN SHOT, MANY INJURED IN MILK STRIFE

CHICAGO, May 20—Two men were shot and a dozen others slugged in one battle and several tank trucks carrying thousands of gallons of milk were overturned today as violence marked the opening of Chicago's second strike of milk wagon drivers within three weeks.

The shootings occurred near Volo, Ill., 30 miles northwest of Chicago, when pickets attempted to halt eight tank trucks being conveyed to the city of Wisconsin by 15 carloads of guards.

According to state police, 150 men deployed across a main highway, forcing the milk trucks to stop. Before the pickets could take any action, however, the guards opened fire with revolvers over the heads of the attackers. In the ensuing melee, two of the pickets were wounded slightly by bullets, and 12 or more were beaten.

A number of other milk trucks, without convicts, were stopped and overturned and their contents spilled.

President Henry Weber in the AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, which called the strike over wage differences, immediately declared the union was not responsible for the outbreaks. "We have 4,000 men on strike and cannot control them all," he said, "but we will stand for no violence. We want to conduct this fight peacefully and decently and this affair (at Volo) was a wildcat action."

El Centro, Brawley, Imperial, Holtville and Calexico. Although a preliminary survey indicated the damage would run into several millions of dollars, officials busy with relief work did not immediately begin to estimate the cost of the havoc wrought.

10 Days' Supply Available
A warning that the present supply of water would be sufficient for ten days "if used cautiously" came from M. J. Dowd, chief engineering inspector for the valley irrigation district. The situation was a particularly serious threat to the area's $30,000,000 crop of lettuce, cantaloupes and watermelons.

The official list of dead was posted as:
Mrs. Ruth E. Mullings, 29, Imperial; her daughter, Rudine, 17 months; another daughter, Wilora, 3; Juanita Blevens, 18, Imperial; John C. Moore, 19, Heber; Abel Portillo, 75, Brawley; Manuel Garcia, 25, Mexicali; an unidentified Chinese in Mexicali.

Mrs. Mullings and her two daughters were crushed to death when a brick grocery store in the Imperial business district collapsed under the stress of an earth movement described as "circular." Miss Blevens also died in the falling debris. Falling walls accounted for the other deaths.

The husband, Ben Mullings, managed to reach safety on the street with their 4-year-old son, Joel. They suffered slight injuries.

maneuvering, retreating and then attacking again."

According to the spokesman, the German armored columns taking part in this action consist of four or five divisions.

"Although they have lost part of their material and obviously must be fatigued," he added, "they show no signs of diminishing energy."

"They are still pushing in a northwesterly direction."

Mobile Attack Violent

"Hardest fighting is taking place around Landrecies and La-fere, but it must be pointed out that the character of the struggle is extremely mobile."

"The advance tank units of the Germans are preceded by motorcycle squads which are wheeling and maneuvering, attacking and retreating."

Along with the continuous hammering by their armored units, the Germans opened up a terrific artillery barrage against the Montmedy fort, one of the key points of the French Maginot line.

Heavy artillery pounded the fort unrelentingly all day long, lifting the fire just long enough to permit infantry attacks.

These assaults, said the French spokesman, were "strong, bunched up in the traditional German manner and sustained."

"But," he added, "all were repulsed."

At the end of the day-long pounding, it was stated, the Germans at Montmedy had succeeded in taking only one of the small advanced casements housing only machine guns.

From Montmedy along the Rhine, the spokesman added, all is quiet, while in northern Belgium Allied units are continuing strategic withdrawals satisfactorily and apparently unhampered with the exception of an attack on the British rearguard. This attack, however, was reported local in character and not strong.

To place their names on the non-partisan judicial ballot, Dunlavy and other candidates seeking the post must file 60 days before the November election petitions bearing approximately 25,000 signatures.

BERLIN—Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former commissioner of the German province of Ostmark (Austria), has been appointed commissioner of the newly acquired Dutch territory by Chancellor Hitler, according to an official announcement today. Seyss-Inquart was pro-Nazi leader in Austria before the 1938 Anschluss.

LONDON—World revolution as a result of the war in Europe was hinted by Michael Kalinin, president of the U.S.S.R., in a speech at Viborg, it was reported today from Stockholm.

BUDAPEST—Soviet circles expect David Lloyd George, World War premier of Britain, to visit Moscow in an attempt to engineer a Russo-British rapprochement, according to the Stockholm correspondent of the Budapest newspaper Magyar Nemzet today.

STOCKHOLM — Refugees arriving at the Swedish frontier today said German parachute troops had taken the town of Mo on Rane-fjord, South of Narvik. The Norwegian forces, they said, are retreating in good order over Salt Mountain in the direction of Bodø, north of Mo and south of Narvik.

LONDON — The British destroyer Whitley has been damaged by bombs and beached, the admiralty announced today. Four casualties were incurred aboard the destroyer, the announcement said.

BERLIN—Eighteen Allied soldiers—prisoners of war in the Mieshagen camp near Hanover—were killed by bombs from British planes, it was officially charged today. Several other prisoners were injured by the bomb blasts, an official announcement said.

LONDON—The British government today handed down an order prohibiting aliens of all nationalities from possessing firearms, ammunition and explosives.

duck and shake the dirt from our shoulders.

I and one other American have the distinction of being the sole civilians watching the battle from the German side dressed in pressed suits, white shirts and ties, in marked contrast to the uniforms surrounding us.

Allied Chances Slender

Initial observations in the area of operations seem to indicate to me that if the Allies hope to stand off the German onslaught by means of a counter-offensive, their chances appear slender.

For I passed endless miles of German troops and artillery columns, all equipped with the latest paraphernalia of war. Even the German foot troops are able to cover 60 miles a day—carrying only rifles, bayonets and hand grenades, while their knapsacks are transported on special trucks behind them.

According to German estimates, the Nazi advance after today's spread will move rapidly past Sheide to Ypres, with the center moving over Cambrai to the Paris region and the left wing forging South toward Abbeville.

All the spearheads sooner or later, it was predicted, will move in the direction of the channel ports.

Hitler's general staff has provided for every contingency.

In many cases it was notable that the River Meuse was spanned by the Germans with emergency bridges prepared long before hand and thrown systematically into place as soon as the advance troops had chased the Allied forces from the opposite banks.

After talking with German staff officers, I can say that Hitler has initiated new battle tactics based on demoralization of the enemy by means of air force attacks to keep him relentlessly in retreat. This is aimed at precipitating the collapse of the enemy through confusion, lack of a rear line or rallying point and through lack of coordination.

A lucky line of vision gave the two of us a good break today, but this happens once in a blue moon. My eyes are smarting from powder dust and my neck aches from watching the sky for Allied air raiders, which are now by far the most deadly menace, save for exploding long-range shells.

Even on the German side of the border Allied planes caused repeated air raid alarms last night. But between the alarms there was the constant tread of Hitler's army flowing past.

Today I noticed the faces of the German soldiers were less strained than they were in Poland, for here there are no franc-tireurs sniping at them in the occupied areas.

The people are quiet and calm, but look with downcast eyes at the smoking, black ruins and shambles that the passing battle has caused.

And little wooden crosses along the roadsides and in the fields, increasing rapidly, remind one that war does not spare human life.

ing tree limb two miles east of Willoughby. The driver, Carl Rauch, 20, lost control of the car in trying to avoid the limb and crashed into another automobile head-on.

Rauch suffered a broken thumb, body bruises and lacerations. Miss Mildred Ponsart, 19, one of his passengers, was in serious condition in Lake County Memorial Hospital with a possible spine injury. Harold Nickles, 20, received cuts about the head, a collarbone fracture and body bruises.

Mrs. Charlotte Snyder, 41, Bedford, and her daughter, Dorothy, 16, were injured when a gust of wind forced their car off the road into a ditch. Mrs. Snyder received chest contusions and her daughter a shoulder blade fracture.

Four pedestrians were cut about the body in Cleveland when a store window in front of which they had sought shelter was shattered.

The wind, which reached a velocity of 61 miles an hour, also inflicted heavy damage to power and communication lines. Numerous Cleveland suburbs were without lights for 15 minutes to two hours when a main feeder line went out of commission.

Six Clevelanders narrowly escaped drowning at Akron when three canoes were capsized.

Goat's milk is very nutritious and is in many cases recommended for sickly infants and persons suffering from tuberculosis, as it is more easily digested than cow's milk.

TWO MEN SHOT, MANY INJURED IN MILK STRIFE

CHICAGO, May 20 — Two men were shot and a dozen others slugged in one battle and several tank trucks carrying thousands of gallons of milk were overturned today as violence marked the opening of Chicago's second strike of milk wagon drivers within three weeks.

The shootings occurred near Volo, Ill., 30 miles northwest of Chicago, when pickets attempted to halt eight tank trucks being conveyed to the city of Wisconsin by 15 carloads of guards.

According to state police, 150 men deployed across a main highway forcing the milk trucks to stop. Before the pickets could take any action, however, the guards opened fire with revolvers over the heads of the attackers. In the ensuing melee, two of the pickets were wounded slightly by bullets, and 12 or more were beaten.

A number of other milk trucks, without convicts, were stopped and overturned and their contents spilled.

President Henry Weber in the AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, which called the strike over wage differences, immediately declared the union was not responsible for the outbreaks. "We have 4,000 men on strike and cannot control them all," he said, "but we will stand for no violence. We want to conduct this fight peacefully and decently and this affair (at Volo) was a wildcat action."

Mussolini showed himself on his balcony twice in one day—according to a news item. Maybe just to prove to the nervous Italian that there really is a Mussolini.

HITLER AND HIS TEACHER

TO understand Adolf Hitler and the type of civilization he is establishing in Germany and setting up as a model to the world, it is useful to read not only Hitler's "Mein Kampf" but the writing of Friedrich Nietzsche, the anarchist philosopher. Hitler takes his individual anarchism and makes it national.

Nietzsche taught that all moral systems are based not on eternal principles, but merely on expedients found useful somewhere, at some time, in trying to carry on. There is therefore nothing sacred or binding about them, and anybody is free to change them.

No code of morality can be any good, he insists, unless it makes men efficient. All gods and religions, because they uphold moral codes against change, are condemned as hostile to mankind. Christian ideas of self-sacrifice and brotherhood are enemies of life.

Henry L. Mencken, in his book on this heathen philosopher, emphasizes the impressive Nietzschean principle: "That human beings of the ruling, efficient class should reject all gods and religions, and with them the morality at the bottom of them and the ideas which grow out of them." He rejects democracy along with Christianity.

Hitler has obviously adopted this philosophy as a way of life. And it wouldn't matter so much, if he had not also imposed it upon a great nation, insisting with Nietzsche that the important thing in life is to be strong and ruthless, and putting Germany itself "above good and evil," with a perfect right to trample down weaker nations.

BURNING RECORDS

THERE has been a holocaust in European capitals lately, quite aside from the burning of buildings by invaders. A late news item from Bern, Switzerland, tells of the British and French legations "burning their papers." It was done in plain sight of the public. The British did it in the front yard and the French in the back yard, while the passing public looked on with interest. This rite was preliminary to their leaving, with the Swiss government, for a safer temporary capital.

There have been interesting stories about German diplomats, too, burning their papers before taking a hasty departure from the capitals of countries with which they were about to go to war. But they usually did the burning in the basement.

It's a sad loss in some ways. What stories, what illumination of historic events, must be going up in smoke. His-

MAY DELAY CONVENTION

WASHINGTON—If the European war continues at its present world-shaking pace, it is not improbable that the Republican National convention will be postponed. This possibility is being deliberated privately and very seriously by GOP leaders in Chicago, Washington and New York. No decision has yet been reached, but two strong arguments based on events abroad make it a better than even money bet that the convention will be delayed if there is no let-up in the war.

1st, it is agreed that during such titanic upheavals the people would be uninterested in party politics, and the convention would be unable to obtain uppermost attention either in their thoughts or in the press.

2nd, that it would be unwise, if not impossible, for the Republican Party to formulate a platform plank on foreign policy and the war. This is because there is a strong—and growing—GOP element favoring some form of direct aid to the Allies, in other words, agreeing with the President.

BATTLE OVER FOREIGN POLICY

On the other hand, a very local minority is vehemently isolationist. In the middle is still another group fearful of both sides, and preferring to take no stand. A battle-royal in the convention between these factions might greatly embarrass any candidate.

Also, inner party leaders are worried over fighting a presidential campaign on the war issue. As the minority party, the GOP is not in a position to shift its policy overnight to meet changing conditions. The Democrats can do that. Roosevelt can take the air any day and enunciate what would amount to an entirely new platform. But the GOP platform, once approved by the convention, is the party's stand. It can't be juggled around.

NOTE—If the convention is postponed until August or September, it would actually meet on June 24, but recess at the call of the National Committee. In this case the Democrats probably will do likewise; for Roosevelt already has proposed that both parties hold their conventions in the autumn.

WAR NOTES

War department cables from the battle front report that the French are being crippled by German airplanes which blow up their roads behind the lines, upsetting their lines of communication, and preventing them from bringing up shells and reinforcements. . . . Senator George of Georgia, once the object of the purge, is now the staunch supporter of the President on foreign policy and rearmament. He is giving the War Department strong backing for appropriations. . . . Some of the European reports indicate that the people of Norway, Denmark, Holland, etc., surrendered to Germany because they had no great faith in their own governmental and economic systems. Many had been depressed by low wages or unemployment, (Continued on Page Eight) torians would love to get their hands on those papers. There will be plenty more burned as the war spreads.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH'S recent offer of $1,000,000 for Adolf Hitler's delivery to the League of Nations, for trial as a criminal "against the peace and dignity of the world," has been taken with a certain amount of seriousness in some quarters.

Even in congress one hears the suggestion that maybe Samuel's proposal constituted a violation of our neutrality, and that perhaps its author has laid himself open to prosecution by the justice department. Not that I think the department will act on this hint. Nevertheless, it goes to show how sensitive many folk are to anything that they deem the least bit likely to involve the United States in overseas hostilities.

If Sam had offered a reward for Adolf's actual bumping off, it's possible that he might have risked subjecting himself to federal punishment. He was careful to specify, however, that the Fuehrer must be delivered "alive, unwounded and unhurt."

The bulk of congressional comment is to the effect that he made a hopelessly low bid. The Allies, these critics point out, are blowing in billions to attain the same end that Sam offers only a measly million for. If billions can't turn the trick, they ask, who'll be tempted by Sam Church's cheap promised reward?

LOOKS LIKE JOKE

My own notion is that Samuel himself simply was joking. Still, there are those who say that, if so, he was joking with a buzz-saw. It's true, I've wondered why some anti-Nazi German hasn't taken a pot-shot or tossed a bomb at Herr Hitler or now. There surely must be a few Germans who hate him. I wouldn't recommend his (or anybody's) assassination, but there are individuals who do believe in it in emergencies, and who practice it occasionally.

I have a family connection, long resident in a consular capacity, in Leipzig, but recently returned, in retirement; so he can talk. I asked him, "Isn't there any anti-Hitlerism in Germany? If there is, how happens it that it includes nobody with the ginger to take a shot at the chap?"

"Yes," the ex-consul replied, "there's some anti-Hitlerism there. 'But in the first place,' he continued, 'Adolf is mighty well guarded.'"

JUST SUPPOSE—

"And suppose that Hitler chanced to be riding, for instance, past a big apartment house, like this," said the ex-consul.

(We were passing one in Washington, at the time.) "And suppose," he continued, "a shot were fired at him from one of its windows. And suppose his guardians couldn't identify the window it was fired from. It wouldn't make any difference whether the shot hit him or not. Everybody in that apartment house would be killed immediately. Then a massacre of all the Jews in Germany would follow.

"It's enough to make any well-meaning would-be assassin stop and think."

Subsequently, it will be recalled, there actually was an explosion at a Nazi gathering in Munich which was supposed to have been intended for Adolf's benefit, but he seems to have had an inkling that that gathering was an undesirable one for him to linger over. Anyway, he quit the building earlier than usual—and missed the explosion.

POPULAR SUBSCRIPTIONS

Sam Church didn't say he'd pay his whole anti-Hitler fund out of his own pocket.

He said he had subscriptions to it, to add to his personal contribution.

This popular subscription idea isn't altogether new.

The Chinese are taking one up now, to pay for the assassination of Wang Shing-Wei, Japan's puppet president of China, in opposition to the real president, Chiang Kai-Shek. Contributions as low as $1-Mex are thankfully accepted.

The Chinese are not as particular as is Samuel Church. They don't require delivery of Wang "alive, unwounded and unhurt." If he is so delivered he won't remain that way for very long.

"You dropped something!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Now It Can Be Told

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY OLD FRIEND Dr. Adrian Gibbs says he is about to retire from practice, and the only advantage associated with it is that he can now tell some of his patients what he has been wanting to tell them for a long time. On her own fearful authority, I hear he said to one of them the other day, somewhat as follows:

"Madame, you seem to be suspicious that your stomach is staying out nights and not working regularly at the office as it is supposed to do. You have indigestion, so you say, or dyspepsia, and you have told me about it at great length. In fact, the only time you show any vivacity at all is while you are talking about the delinquencies of your stomach. You are as interested in your stomach as is a mother in a wayward son. You may not realize it, but while you are discussing this fascinating subject you touch rhythmically the place where you think your stomach is with the extended middle finger of your left hand.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Now I have investigated your stomach with all the resources at my command. I have removed some of the secretion of your stomach, and while you seem to think it is incompetent, I do not find it so. The sample I examined seemed to be very strong. It was quite capable, I believe, not only of digesting an ordinary meal but even of dissolving one of the buttons of my coat."

"The X-rays that you had taken in New York unquestionably fascinate you, and I don't wonder, considering the price you paid for them, but they fail to arouse my professional interest. They look like just another stomach to me and nothing else."

"You have brought me a list of the foods that a distinguished clinic has said you can't eat. It is neatly typewritten, but I have been unable to elicit from you any real reason why you shouldn't eat them. In fact, I may let you in on a semi-professional secret and tell you that your husband called me up and asked me practically with tears in his voice not to give you any more foods you can't eat, because he likes some of the foods on that typewritten list and, according to him, since you got it, you won't have any of them in the house."

"Among the numerous treatments that you have undergone you tell me of the 'no breakfast cure.' You asked me my opinion of that and I will now tell you. For a great many people of my acquaintance a no-breakfast cure would be a very good thing, but for you, no. You need a good many breakfasts in succession. You are thin, you have half starved yourself with your crazy notions and most of your trouble is hunger. Of course, your stomach grows. It wants work. You have forced it into the army of the unemployed."

"My advice to you would be that your suspicions about your stomach are not well founded. You have a good, sober, industrious stomach. Your trouble is what you think of your stomach. Nothing, not even a stomach, can stand up under a continuous barrage of contempt and scorn and abuse."

"My first order to you is to eat a meal consisting of everything on that list that the distinguished clinic said you couldn't eat, and eat it with confidence."

"Then go home and empty your medicine chest. Throw away all the cathartics and soda pills and artificial digestants, and greet your husband tonight with a kiss and tell him you feel fine whether you do or not, and that you are going to have cucumbers and lobster and beer and ice cream for dinner, and you want to go to a movie afterwards and then to a hot spot and dance. The shock may be bad for him for a while, but he will survive. Lady, you need to come alive."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS: BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson, JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

YESTERDAY: Jeremy begins to learn that pretty young girls can be most attractive.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

MR. JEREMY TUCKER and his grandfather, Mr. Benjamin W. Merrifield, and the latter's companion and secretary, Mr. Weems, were the only three gentlemen at the party in evening clothes. And theirs were not, strictly speaking, formal; that is, they wore no "tails," but were in tuxedos. They were a dignified trio. Jeremy's face, normally too pale from months of work in libraries, somehow had acquired a cherubic pinkness tonight and this made him look almost as young as he really was.

"Jeremy," Gayle Dixon said when he came downstairs dressed, "you are my date tonight and I shall be first to say how handsome you look. You do!"

"Don't be afraid of 'em, pal. Get out and mix. It's your party." Jeremy understood that. In his shy manner he was enjoying it, too.

"Christopher!" Bill breathed. "What luck! I didn't expect to have a breather, just with you. Come on, kid, we're going for a stroll."

"All right."

"It's a million-dollar night. The weather, I mean. Look at it." "No argument there, Bill, surely. The Oaks is a wonderful place. How many acres?"

"Oh, 20 I guess. Kept perfectly, always. Let's walk out by the old swimming pool. I'm going to condition that, see if I don't! It's warm enough to swim now, at midnight."

"I hope you do. Mr. Merrifield will approve."

"If I want anything, Gayle, I'll get it through you. He's sold on you."

"Oh, Bill!"

"Sure. We all are. You look wonderful tonight."

"Are you making love to me? But—I'd give a leg to do so. But—well, you know. A year. Ho, hum!"

"After the year is up, Bill, I hope we can still be friends—whether you come a-wooing or not. You are an interesting somebody."

"Now that just makes it worse, Gayle. Don't egg me on."

"They ambled, arm in arm, across a pathway that caught an avenue of light from the mansion, and instantly a man on the porch 50 yards away saw them. He came running."

"Miss Dixon!" he cried. "Mr. Bailey! . . . Please!"

"It's Graham," Gayle murmured. "The butler!"

He came up panting. Distress marked his ordinarily correct expression, and he addressed Gayle with a look of gravity she had never before seen on him.

"Miss Dixon, I—can you come at once, miss?"

"Certainly, Graham. But what is it? Has Mr. Merrifield, or—?" She envisioned something awful happening either to her employer or to Jeremy. She had left Jeremy alone! Had he managed to do something rash? Something to spoil the party for them all?

"It's neither of them, miss. It's a guest. He told me first. I begged him to wait and alarm no one. I came hurrying for you, knowing that you—"

Graham was woefully confused. "But whatever happened, Graham? What guest? What happened?"

"Robbery, miss. A theft. The young lady he brought—her wrist watch, with diamonds! It's most distressing, miss! Host!"

HITLER AND HIS TEACHER

TO understand Adolf Hitler and the type of civilization he is establishing in Germany and setting up as a model to the world, it is useful to read not only Hitler's "Mein Kampf" but the writing of Friedrich Nietzsche, the anarchist philosopher. Hitler takes his individual anarchism and makes it national.

Nietzsche taught that all moral systems are based not on eternal principles, but merely on expedients found useful somewhere, at some time, in trying to carry on. There is therefore nothing sacred or binding about them, and anybody is free to change them.

No code of morality can be any good, he insists, unless it makes men efficient. All gods and religions, because they uphold moral codes against change, are condemned as hostile to mankind. Christian ideas of self-sacrifice and brotherhood are enemies of life.

Henry L. Mencken, in his book on this heathen philosopher, emphasizes the impressive Nietzschean principle: "That human beings of the ruling, efficient class should reject all gods and religions, and with them the morality at the bottom of them and the ideas which grow out of them." He rejects democracy along with Christianity.

Hitler has obviously adopted this philosophy as a way of life. And it wouldn't matter so much, if he had not also imposed it upon a great nation, insisting with Nietzsche that the important thing in life is to be strong and ruthless, and putting Germany itself "above good and evil," with a perfect right to trample down weaker nations.

BURNING RECORDS

THERE has been a holocaust in European capitals lately, quite aside from the burning of buildings by invaders. A late news item from Bern, Switzerland, tells of the British and French legations "burning their papers." It was done in plain sight of the public. The British did it in the front yard and the French in the back yard, while the passing public looked on with interest. This rite was preliminary to their leaving, with the Swiss government, for a safer temporary capital.

There have been interesting stories about German diplomats, too, burning their papers before taking a hasty departure from the capitals of countries with which they were about to go to war. But they usually did the burning in the basement.

It's a sad loss in some ways. What stories, what illumination of historic events, must be going up in smoke. His-

MAY DELAY CONVENTION

WASHINGTON—If the European war continues at its present world-shaking pace, it is not improbable that the Republican National convention will be postponed. This possibility is being deliberated privately and very seriously by GOP leaders in Chicago, Washington and New York. No decision has yet been reached, but two strong arguments based on events abroad make it a better than even money bet that the convention will be delayed if there is no let-up in the war.

1st, it is agreed that during such titanic upheavals the people would be uninterested in party politics, and the convention would be unable to obtain uppermost attention either in their thoughts or in the press.

2nd, that it would be unwise, if not impossible, for the Republican Party to formulate a platform plank on foreign policy and the war. This is because there is a strong—and growing—GOP element favoring some form of direct aid to the Allies, in other words, agreeing with the President.

BATTLE OVER FOREIGN POLICY

On the other hand, a very local minority is vehemently isolationist. In the middle is still another group fearful of both sides, and preferring to take no stand. A battle-royal in the convention between these factions might greatly embarrass any candidate.

Also, inner party leaders are worried over fighting a presidential campaign on the war issue. As the minority party, the GOP is not in a position to shift its policy overnight to meet changing conditions. The Democrats can do that. Roosevelt can take the air any day and enunciate what would amount to an entirely new platform. But the GOP platform, once approved by the convention, is the party's stand. It can't be juggled around.

NOTE—If the convention is postponed until August or September, it would actually meet on June 24, but recess at the call of the National Committee. In this case the Democrats probably will do likewise; for Roosevelt already has proposed that both parties hold their conventions in the autumn.

WAR NOTES

War department cables from the battle front report that the French are being crippled by German airplanes which blow up their roads behind the lines, upsetting their lines of communication, and preventing them from bringing up shells and reinforcements. . . . Senator George of Georgia, once the object of the purge, is now the staunch supporter of the President on foreign policy and rearmament. He is giving the War Department strong backing for appropriations. . . . Some of the European reports indicate that the people of Norway, Denmark, Holland, etc., surrendered to Germany because they had no great faith in their own governmental and economic systems. Many had been depressed by low wages or unemployment.

ticians would love to get their hands on those papers. There will be plenty more burned as the war spreads.

WORLD AT A GLANCE.....

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH'S recent offer of $1,000,000 for Adolf Hitler's delivery to the League of Nations, for trial as a criminal "against the peace and dignity of the world," has been taken with a certain amount of seriousness in some quarters.

Even in congress one hears the suggestion that maybe Samuel's proposal constituted a violation of our neutrality, and that perhaps its author has laid himself open to prosecution by the justice department. Not that I think the department will act on this hint. Nevertheless, it goes to show how sensitive many folk are to anything that they deem the least bit likely to involve the United States in overseas hostilities.

If Sam had offered a reward for Adolf's actual bumping off, it's possible that he might have risked subjecting himself to federal punishment. He was careful to specify, however, that the Fuehrer must be delivered "alive, unwounded and unhurt."

LOOKS LIKE JOKE
My own notion is that Samuel

himself simply was joking. Still, there are those who say that, if so, he was joking with a buzz-saw. It's true, I've wondered why some anti-Nazi German hasn't taken a pot-shot or tossed a bomb at Herr Hitler ere now. There surely must be a few Germans who hate him. I wouldn't recommend his (or anybody's) assassination, but there are individuals who do believe in it in emergencies, and who practice it occasionally.

I have a family connection, long resident in a consular capacity, in Leipzig, but recently returned, in retirement; so he can talk.

I asked him, "Isn't there any anti-Hitlerism in Germany? If there is, how happens it that it includes nobody with the ginger to take a shot at the chap?"

"Yes," the ex-consul replied, "there's some anti-Hitlerism there. 'But in the first place,' he continued, 'Adolf is mighty well guarded.'"

JUST SUPPOSE—
"And suppose that Hitler chanced to be riding, for instance, past a big apartment house, like this," said the ex-consul.

(We were passing one in Washington, at the time.)

"And suppose," he continued, "a shot were fired at him from one of its windows. And suppose his guardians couldn't identify the window it was fired from. It wouldn't make any difference whether the shot hit him or not. Everybody in that apartment house would be killed immediately. Then a massacre of all the Jews in Germany would follow.

"It's enough to make any well-meaning would-be assassin stop and think."

Subsequently, it will be recalled, there actually was an explosion at a Nazi gathering in Munich which was supposed to have been intended for Adolf's benefit, but he seems to have had an inkling that that gathering was an undesirable one for him to linger over. Anyway, he quit the building earlier than usual—and missed the explosion.

POPULAR SUBSCRIPTIONS
Sam Church didn't say he'd pay his whole anti-Hitler fund out of his own pocket.

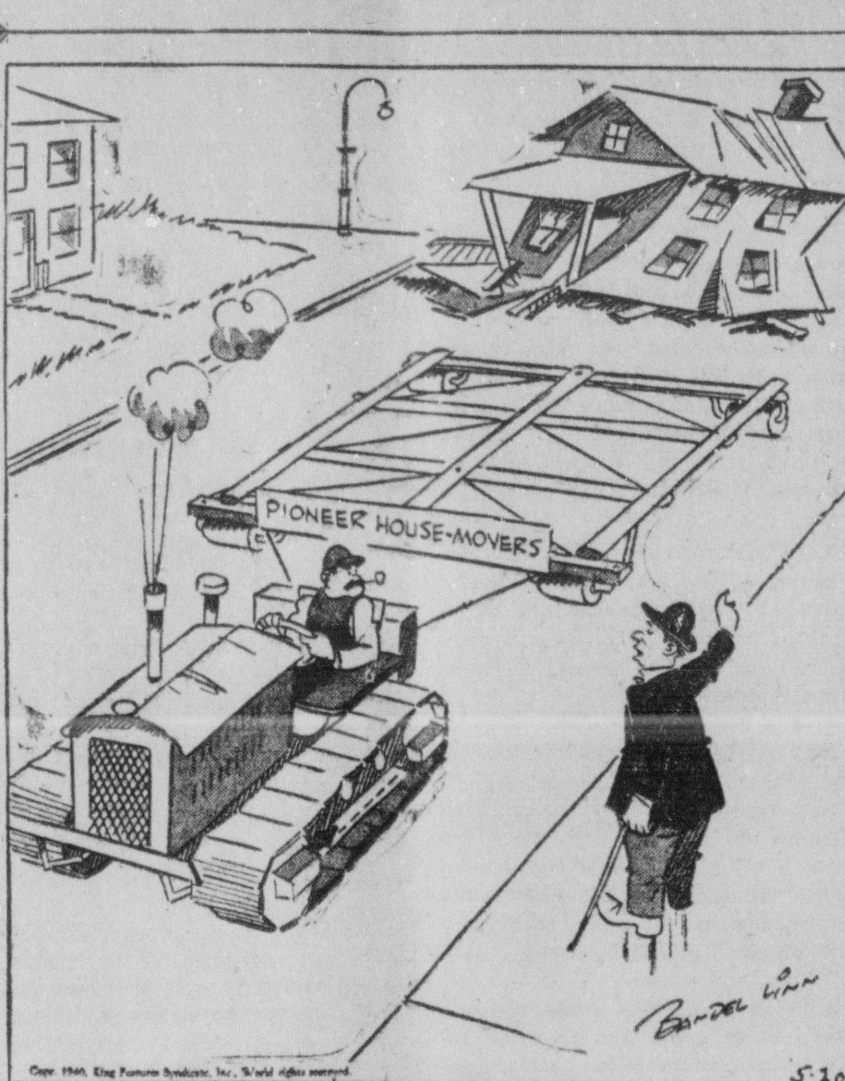

He said he had subscriptions to it, to add to his personal contribution.

This popular subscription idea isn't altogether new.

The Chinese are taking one up now, to pay for the assassination of Wang Shing-Wei, Japan's puppet president of China, in opposition to the real president, Chiang Kai-Shek. Contributions as low as $1-Mex are thankfully accepted.

The Chinese are not as particular as is Samuel Church. They don't require delivery of Wang "alive, unwounded and unhurt." If he is so delivered he won't remain that way for very long.

DIET AND HEALTH

Now It Can Be Told

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY OLD FRIEND Dr. Adrian Gibbs says he is about to retire from practice, and the only advantage associated with it is that he can now tell some of his patients what he has been wanting to tell them for a long time. On her own tearful authority, I hear he said to one of them the other day, somewhat as follows:

"Madame, you seem to be suspicious that your stomach is staying out nights and not working regularly at the office as it is supposed to do. You have indigestion, so you say, or dyspepsia, and you have told Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

me about it at great length. In fact, the only time you show any vivacity at all is while you are talking about the delinquencies of your stomach. You are as interested in your stomach as is a mother in a wayward son. You may not realize it, but while you are discussing this fascinating subject you touch rhythmically the place where you think your stomach is with the extended middle finger of your left hand.

"Now I have investigated your stomach with all the resources at my command. I have removed some of the secretion of your stomach, and while you seem to think it is incompetent, I do not find it so. The sample I examined seemed to be very strong. It was quite capable, I believe, not only of digesting an ordinary meal but even of dissolving one of the buttons of my coat.

"The X-rays that you had taken in New York unquestionably fascinate you, and I don't wonder, considering the price you paid for them, but they fail to arouse my professional interest. They look like just another stomach to me and nothing else.

"You have brought me a list of the foods that a distinguished clinic has said you can't eat. It is neatly typewritten, but I have been unable to elicit from you any real reason why you shouldn't eat them. In fact, I may let you in on a semi-professional secret and tell you that your husband called me up and asked me practically with tears in his voice not to give you any more foods you can't eat, because he likes some of the foods on that typewritten list and, according to him, since you got it, you won't have any of them in the house.

"Among the numerous treatments that you have undergone you tell me of the 'no breakfast cure.' You asked me my opinion of that and I will now tell you. For a great many people of my acquaintance a no-breakfast cure would be a very good thing, but for you, no. You need a good many breakfasts in succession. You are thin, you have half starved yourself with your crazy notions and most of your trouble is hunger. Of course, your stomach grows. It wants work. You have forced it into the army of the unemployed.

"My advice to you would be that your suspicions about your stomach are not well founded. You have a good, sober, industrious stomach. Your trouble is what you think of your stomach. Nothing, not even a stomach, can stand up under a continuous barrage of contempt and scorn and abuse.

"My first order to you is to eat a meal consisting of everything on that list that the distinguished clinic said you couldn't eat, and eat it with confidence.

"Then go home and empty your medicine chest. Throw away all the cathartics and soda pills and artificial digestants, and greet your husband tonight with a kiss and tell him you feel fine whether you do or not, and that you are going to have cucumbers and lobster and beer and ice cream for dinner, and you want to go to a movie afterwards and then to a hot spot and dance. The shock may be bad for him for a while, but he will survive. Lady, you need to come alive."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. ### SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires
GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson.
JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

FESTERDAY: Jeremy begins to learn that pretty young girls can be most attractive.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

MR. JEREMY TUCKER and his grandfather, Mr. Benjamin W. Merrifield, and the latter's companion and secretary, Mr. Weems, were the only three gentlemen at the party in evening clothes. And theirs were not, strictly speaking, formal; that is, they wore no "tails," but were in tuxedos. They were a dignified trio. Jeremy's face, normally too pale from months of work in libraries, somehow had acquired a cherubic pinkness tonight and this made him look almost as young as he really was.

"Jeremy," Gayle Dixon said when he came downstairs dressed, "you are my date tonight and I shall be first to say how handsome you look. You do!"

She smiled brightly at him and did tell him he was the handsomest man present or likely to be. In fact, that she was not exaggerating. Mr. Merrifield, at 78, was a striking figure. At the moment he acted kitchentish, warning Jeremy that he, the grandfather, was a widower who might himself propose to Gayle before the evening was over. "I'll elope with you instantly if you do, sir," she warned him.

The small talk delighted the old man and served to break some of the ice that encrusted poor Jeremy.

In truth, Jeremy had been ill at ease about this evening's "presentation" party. He had wondered just what was expected of him. Should he have a date? How should he ask a girl? And what girl—goodness, he knew none, save those now around the mansion here!

But Gayle had smoothly made herself his companion and he was grateful. Somehow he trusted her, liked her, felt more assured in her presence. If a difficult situation arose (as had happened frequently here of late) Gayle knew just what to say and how to say it.

Even so, he could not have anticipated the excitement of the evening. There was a great deal of initial politeness with the girls of the mansion presenting their various guests and with the inevitable get-acquainted conversations. Each couple that arrived brought the ordeal onto him anew.

He could not tell truth. Some of the girl guests were dressed so beautifully that they confused him. The perfume they wore was more disturbing than their brilliance of color and their sparkle of personality. Some of the young men were quiet mannered, more of them were hearty.

"Hi, ya, Tucker, glad to know you and no fooling!" one big fellow boomed when Bill Bailey presented him, an old football comrade.

"I—I—ah—I—yes!" was the best acknowledgment Jeremy could manage. He would have given all he possessed to have shot back in kind. To have barked a quick, "Swell, kid, glad you could come tonight. We'll be chinning, eh?" But he couldn't have said that if a life depended on it. Tragically, he didn't know how.

Gayle, clinging tight, smoothed most of those bumps for him.

It was not hard for Gayle to direct attention to herself when introductions were under way. When the first music started, five young men hastened to her asking to dance. She wondered what had happened to their own dates, but she smiled a refusal at all.

"Thanks, but Jeremy has this one already," she declared.

"Just walk, short steps, and we'll bluff along for a moment. Jeremy. . . . That's right . . . doing fine . . . don't look so frightened . . . look at me, Jeremy, and smile . . . smile, Jeremy! . . . there!"

She edged him across the room so that they might be seen, and onto the sun porch. Subdued lanterns lighted the porch now and she saw that she and he were alone.

"It wasn't so bad, now was it, Jeremy? You have a sense of rhythm. I just assumed you knew how to dance, but I'll bet you have been too busy to learn. I shall teach you!"

"I—I—oh, Gayle!"

"We won't dance any more this evening. Just go back in, circulate around and be nice to people. Smile a lot, Jeremy. A smile will replace words any time. Remember that."

He did remember it, and it was a life saver. When guests spoke to him or passed to chat a minute, his smile was prompt. After a half hour or so he was more at ease and could converse a little. Lola Montez helped him. Her quiet voice was always a comfort, he found, and she could talk intelligently. Bubbly little Tempe Hyde, however, seemed to be the most attentive listener whenever Jeremy actually had something to say. He looked around for Tempe tonight. He couldn't see her at first. Later he saw her dancing. She had left her spectacles off, and he thought she looked very pretty, as always.

She was having a sudden good time all her own. In a moment Bill Bailey took her from a tall, commanding fellow and danced through a door with her. All at once she and Bill were alone.

"Sure. We all are. You look wonderful tonight."

"Are you making love to me?"

"I'd give a leg to do so. But—well, you know. A year. Ho, hum!"

"After the year is up, Bill, I hope you can still be friends—whether you come a-wining or not. You are an interesting somebody."

"Now that just makes it worse, Gayle. Don't egg me on."

They ambled, arm in arm, across a pathway that caught an avenue of light from the mansion, and instantly a man on the porch 50 yards away saw them. He came running. "Miss Dixon!" he cried. "Mr. Bailey! . . . Please!"

"It's Graham," Gayle murmured. "The butler!"

He came up panting. Distress marked his ordinarily correct expression, and he addressed Gayle with a look of gravity she had never before seen on him.

"Miss Dixon—I can you come at once, miss?"

"Certainly, Graham. But what is it? Has Mr. Merrifield, or—?"

She envisioned something awful happening either to her employer or to Jeremy. She had left Jeremy alone! Had he managed to do something rash? Something to spoil the party for them all?

"It's neither of them, miss. It's a guest. He told me first. I begged him to wait and alarm no one. I came hurrying for you, knowing that you—"

Graham was woefully confused. "But whatever happened, Graham? What guest? What happened?"

"Robbery, miss. A theft. The young lady he brought—her wrist watch, with diamonds! It's most distressing, miss! Most!"

STARS SAY—

For Monday, May 20

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a conflicting one, with happy and propitious auguries for all of a personal nature—social, domestic, artistic and affectional. These hold major attention. In other directions, affiliations with groups or influential personages, there may be an open clash or secret undermining. Unless the aims are for public or social benefits, there may be defeat. Seek feminine assistance and develop their plans and ideals. Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very happy and successful year in their private life—social, artistic, domestic and romantic. In other activities there may be lack of cooperation from those in power unless such are animated by lofty feminine ideals and constructive ends. Clubs, groups, fraternities offer opposition unless the aim is lofty and humanitarian.

A child born on this day may have many social graces and talents, possibly devoted to human welfare.

BLUES LEAD BY FOUR GAMES IN ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, May 20—The Kansas City Blues today boasted a 4 1/2 game lead over the rest of the American Association pack by taking a double-header from the second-place Minneapolis Millers while all other squads split double bills.

More than 11,000 home-town fans watched the Blues run their victory string to seven with 10 to 8 and 5 to 2 wins over the Millers.

Indianapolis took the first game from Toledo, 4 to 3, but the Mudhens came back to swamp the Indians in the nightcap, 13 to 8. Columbus took a 6 to 4 win from Louisville before being shut out, 2 to 0.

Milwaukee hung on to the third place slot with a 4 to 1 win over St. Paul, but dropped the second game of the twin bill, 4 to 1.

Ben Hogan's Play Puts Him In Favored Role

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 20—And a slugger shall lead them—

Until somebody can step forward with a rebuttal that will stick, Ben Hogan, sun-tanned wiry, little Texan, is the best golfer currently in the business; the player the field will be watching in the National Open next month, and ball-powdering proof that distance-hitting is no drawback to bagging victories. He stands today in second place among the year's leading money-winners and close to a place among the all time top hands in the game by virtue of his 1940 streak, which was still blazing hot as play ended yesterday in the Goodall round robin.

He won the first prize of $1,000 to increase his winnings for the year to $7,538, compared with Jimmy Demaret's $7,777, and also won in such a way that he left them babbling around the Fresh Meadow Club. His point total in the intricate system of scoring through the seven rounds was plus 23, or four more than Sam Snead, with 19. The latter was the only one anywhere near Hogan at the finish. Gene Sarazen was third with plus seven.

However, if the tournament brought out any fact it was that Hogan's march over the winter circuit was no flash in the pan, and, moreover, that the long hitters currently are dominating the game. Both Hogan and Snead are among the siege guns, and while Sarazen is no terrific clouter such as they, he, too, can lay into one when he finds it necessary.

However, Hogan was the gent everybody watched in this event and the one they will keep on watching for a while. Hindered by a shoulder injury, he nevertheless played the extremely tough par of 70 course in one over par for the 126 holes of gruelling competition with 14 fellow-professionals, each of whom met the other once during the four days.

Hogan's rounds were 71, 68, 73, 66, 71, 73, 69 his 66 equalling the course record set by Sarazen when he won the U. S. Open at Fresh Meadow in 1932.

Having won the north and south, Greensboro, and Asheville opens in a row earlier in the year with a burst of par-cracking that left him 34 under par in those events, Hogan wasn't exactly a surprise in the Goodall.

The crippled Chicago Cubs spurted in the last three innings to score six runs and nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 6 in ten innings and St. Louis Cardinals had to hit three homers to subdue the New York Giants, 6 to 5, in a like number of innings.

Bob Feller's four-hit pitching against the New York Yankees highlighted the American League play, abbreviated somewhat by rain.

Cleveland beat the Yanks, 5 to 1, as the young speed ball artist made it two in a row over the world's champions whom he shut out on a previous meeting this season. Red Ruffing was the victim, suffering his third loss in five starts.

Elsewhere the Washington Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 10, in a game featuring six home runs and the St. Louis Browns decided the Philadelphia Athletics, 10 to 4. Rain cancelled the Boston at Detroit game.

HOME RUN LEADERS

National League—Mize (Cardinals, 12; F. McCormick, Reds, 4; Werber, Reds, 4; Goodman, Reds, 4; Camilli, Dodgers, 4.

American League—Fox, Red Sox, 9; Trosky, Indians, 8; Kuhel, White Sox, 7; Johnson, Athletics, 6; Tabor, Red Sox, 5.

Frye and Cox for the losers.

The Helfrich Juniors had Thom-

BLUES LEAD BY FOUR GAMES IN ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, May 20—The Kansas City Blues today boasted a 4½ game lead over the rest of the American Association pack by taking a double-header from the second-place Minneapolis Millers while all other squads split double bills.

More than 11,000 home-town fans watched the Blues run their victory string to seven with 10 to 8 and 5 to 2 wins over the Millers.
Indianapolis took the first game from Toledo, 4 to 3, but the Mud-hens came back to swamp the Indians in the nightcap, 13 to 8. Columbus took a 6 to 4 win from Louisville before being shut out, 2 to 0.

Milwaukee hung on to the third place slot with a 4 to 1 win over St. Paul, but dropped the second game of the twin bill, 4 to 1.

HEROES AND GOATS
HEROES—Ben Warren, Philadelphia catcher, whose pinch single in the ninth with the bases filled gave the Phillies a win over
Pittsburgh; Rip Russell, Chicago Cub first baseman, whose ten inning homer beat the Brooklyn Dodgers.

GOATS—Red Ruffing, New York Yankee pitcher, whose wildness helped the Cleveland Indians beat the world's champions;
Walter Brown, New York Giant hurler, who issued three walks and a single in the tenth as the Giants bowed to the Cardinals.

Until somebody can step forward with a rebuttal that will stick, Ben Hogan, sun-tanned wiry, little Texan, is the best golfer currently in the business; the player the field will be watching in the National Open next month, and ball-powdering proof that distance-hitting is no

ELLIOTT DOES WELL FOR WASHINGTON; TIGER BOYS SCORE TWO IN DISTRICT

Warren Elliott, Washington
Township's ace track performer, won the broad jump and finished second in the shot put Saturday when the Central District track and field meet was conducted in Columbus.

The Washington youth, who starred in the recent Pickaway County field day, leaped 21 feet 1 inch to win the broad jump and heaved the shot 43 feet 10½ inches to be second in that event.
Washington finished in eighth place in the district.

Circleville High, which finished tenth in Class A, scored points when Russ Linton heaved the discuss far enough to finish fourth, and the school's half mile track team ran fourth. On the team were Marvin Jenkins, Paul Walters, Charles Zaenglein and Harold Smith.

The A meet was won by Columbus North and Arlington took the B event.

WALKER LIKED IN GO WITH HOOSIER CHAMP

COLUMBUS, May 20—Jack
"Buddy" Walker, Columbus Negro who holds the Ohio heavyweight boxing crown, will enter the ring a slight favorite to defeat Lou Thomas, Indiana champion, in their 10-round melee tonight.

Thomas pins his hopes of victory on his lethal right hand, despite the fact that Walker has never been defeated. Walker will be after his 15th kayo in 20 starts.

The scheduled outdoor bout will be shifted indoors if the weatherman insists.

Norman Thrapp, a resident of Madison Township, son of the late Mrs. Bessie Dum Thrapp and a recent graduate of Walnut high school, is now taking a course of training in aviation at a Columbus training school. He makes frequent trips down and about the old home, Louis, the older of the two brothers, and too, a graduate of Walnut school, is an artist connected with a well known Columbus art gallery.

Contacted quite a few of the neighborhood farm people Saturday evening and found them well pleased with crop prospects with wheat showing fine. Corn, with these rains, will come along in good shape. Some, in places, is to plant yet, we were told.

William Collins, they call him "Bill" down in his old home town of Chillicothe, with his wife, sister of Mrs. Harry Sark, were here in the village business section Saturday evening. Mr. Collins won the nomination at the recent primary for sheriff of Ross and hopes to be elected to the office at the coming November election. He won over several entries for the same place. Interrogated him about our former Lester Reid who has been doing rather a good job of being county prosecutor down there for several years. Said that he has been nominated again for the same place but thought maybe any Democrat asking for election this year in Ross, might not get along so well as a winner.

The village council will be in session at the council chamber this evening. Also the Ashville-Harrison joint school board will be in session at the school office. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Brown and daughter Lorna were here Saturday evening at the home of Don Campbell and family. The Browns reside at Blacklick. Mrs. J. W. Vause and daughter Agnes had for Sunday guests Charles, Mrs. Mead and daughter Kitty, Circleville.

G. A. Hook in a fall Saturday severely injured his left arm at the elbow, tearing loose the ligaments. He was resting easily yesterday evening. The several hundred-acre pea crop for the local Crites cannery is showing fine and will be ready for the pack at a not far away date. The plant equipment is being gone over and put in the best possible shape for the work just ahead.

Mrs. Guy Sark in poor health for some time, underwent a major abdominal operation at Mt. Carmel Hospital Friday. "Doing as well as can be expected" is the word from there this morning.

There is but one automobile to every 35 people in England, compared to one for every four in the United States.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY PLANNING COMMENCEMENT

COLUMBUS, May 20—A class of 1750 will be graduated from Ohio State University in June, according to university officials.

Dr. Clarence Tucker Craig, Oberlin College, will be the speaker at baccalaureate on Sunday, June 9, at 3 p. m., in the men's gymnasium. Dr. Craig, a Methodist minister, has been on the Oberlin faculty since 1928. Among his pastorates has been that at Clifton church, Cincinnati.

Following the custom of several years past, President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State will be the only speaker at commencement exercises Monday, June 10, in the stadium. Commencement will be at 5 p. m. the first half hour being devoted to a band concert.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

didn't seem to think the system was worth fighting for. . . . When you look back on the Spanish civil war and compare it with the current surrender of neutrals, you can't escape the conclusion that the Spaniards really had backbone.

RETREAT TO AMERICA
One reason for the international pessimism now pervading the White House is the course which an Allied defeat would be almost sure to take.

Roosevelt's military advisers have pointed out that the British Isles, if attacked, are certain to cave in, or at least to be given such a battering that the government will flee to Canada.

The British fleet will try to save something from the debacle, and the most natural place for it to go will be Canada and the British island possession in American waters — Jamaica, Bermuda, the Bahamas.

In other words, if the British Government is defeated at home, it will try to save as much as it can and rally together the rest of the far-flung Empire — Canada, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand.

When and if this happens, especially if the remnants of the British fleet come to American waters, then American neutrality is going to be put to the biggest test in history. If German airplanes follow, the United may have a hard time staying out of war.

ROOSEVELT'S WAR PREDICTION
There is one conference which the President had with congressional leaders from which he is getting no enjoyment — even though he was absolutely right. This was the conference last summer in which Roosevelt urged Congress to revise the neutrality act because war was imminent.

This was at the tail end of the last session, and the President wanted Congress to remain in Washington longer. Congress wanted to go home. So he summoned some of the leaders to the White House, including the late great Senator Borah.

The full details of what Roosevelt told the leaders never has leaked out, though it was known that he predicted war by last autumn. However, he also went so far as to predict that Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Switzerland would be invaded. The only countries he went wrong on were Norway, which he failed to include, and Switzerland, which at this writing has not been invaded.

Borah and Roosevelt, though differing on politics, always were warm personal friends. And this was a case where the isolationist Senator differed emphatically. He told the President, "My information is different."

All the other congressional leaders agreed with Borah, and Congress adjourned.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Dean of Men at O. S. U. On Rotary's Program

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park of Ohio State University, who speaks at the Rotary Club meeting next Thursday, is "daddy" to 9,673 men students at the university.

Many of these boys are away from home for the first time, and they turn to Dean Park for friendly advice and assistance in all kinds of difficulties.

Dean Park believes boys of 18 years or older should be assuming responsibilities and learning from experience. Consequently he has set up no long string of rules which students must obey. That, he believes, takes away student initiative and leaves little opportunity for personal decision.

Although just past the 40 mark, Park is the only dean of men Ohio State has had. He has held the position since 1927. Previously he had been in Y. M. C. A. work.

It was he who first suggested the cooperative dormitory system, where 500 needy boys attend the university for only $125 room and board cost per year.

No enemy of fraternities, he has built up a model system at Ohio State by which fraternities serve to develop business, social, and scholastic interests among their members.

Ohio State's present system of student government, through a student senate, was worked out by Dean Park. The senate recently honored its founder by purchasing a bust of him, to be placed in some prominent place on the campus.

He is secretary of the national college Y. M. C. A. committee, and a prominent figure in the state and national associations of deans of men.

Norman Thrapp, a resident of Madison Township, son of the late Mrs. Bessie Dum Thrapp and a recent graduate of Walnut high school, is now taking a course of training in aviation at a Columbus training school. He makes frequent trips down and about the old home. Louis, the older of the two brothers, and too, a graduate of Walnut school, is an artist connected with the well known Columbus art gallery.

Contacted quite a few of the neighborhood farm people Saturday evening and found them well pleased with crop prospects with wheat showing fine. Corn, with these rains, will come along in good shape. Some, in places, is to plant yet, we were told.

William Collins, they call him "Bill" down in his old home town of Chillicothe, with his wife, sister of Mrs. Harry Sark, were here in the village business section Saturday evening. Mr. Collins won the nomination at the recent primary for sheriff of Ross and hopes to be elected to the office at the coming November election. He won over several entries for the same place. Interrogated him about our former Lester Reid who has been doing rather a good job of being county prosecutor down there for several years. Said that he has been nominated again for the same place but thought maybe any Democrat asking for election this year in Ross, might not get along so well as a winner.

The village council will be in session at the council chamber this evening. Also the Ashville-Harrison joint school board will be in session at the school office . . . Mr. and Mrs. Luther Brown and daughter Lorna were here Saturday evening at the home of Don Campbell and family. The Browns reside at Blacklick . . . Mrs. J. W. Vause and daughter Agnes had for Sunday guests Charles, Mrs. Mead and daughter Kitty, Circleville.

G. A. Hook in a fall Saturday severely injured his left arm at the elbow, tearing loose the ligaments. He was resting easily yesterday evening . . . The several hundred-acre pea crop for the local Crites cannery is showing fine and will be ready for the pack at a not far away date. The plant equipment is being gone over and put in the best possible shape for the work just ahead.

Mrs. Guy Sark in poor health for some time, underwent a major abdominal operation at Mt. Carmel Hospital Friday. "Doing as well as can be expected" is the word from there this morning.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY PLANNING COMMENCEMENT

Following the custom of several years past, President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State will be the only speaker at commencement exercises Monday, June 10, in the stadium. Commencement will be at 5 p. m. the first half hour being devoted to a band concert.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

didn't seem to think the system was worth fighting for . . . When you look back on the Spanish civil war and compare it with the current surrender of neutrals, you can't escape the conclusion that the Spaniards really had backbone.

RETREAT TO AMERICA
One reason for the international pessimism now pervading the White House is the course which an Allied defeat would be almost sure to take.

Roosevelt's military advisers have pointed out that the British Isles, if attacked, are certain to cave in, or at least to be given such a battering that the government will flee to Canada.

The British fleet will try to save something from the debacle, and the most natural place for it to go will be Canada and the British island possession in American waters — Jamaica, Bermuda, and the Bahamas.

In other words, if the British Government is defeated at home, it will try to save as much as it can and rally together the rest of the far-flung Empire — Canada, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand.

When and if this happens, especially if the remnants of the British fleet come to American waters, then American neutrality is going to be put to the biggest test in history. If German airplanes follow, the United may have a hard time staying out of war.

ROOSEVELT'S WAR PREDICTION
There is one conference which the President had with congressional leaders from which he is getting no enjoyment — even though he was absolutely right. This was the conference last summer in which Roosevelt urged Congress to revise the neutrality act because war was imminent.

This was at the tail end of the last session, and the President wanted Congress to remain in Washington longer. Congress wanted to go home. So he summoned some of the leaders to the White House, including the late great Senator Borah.

The full details of what Roosevelt told the leaders never has leaked out, though it was known that he predicted war by last autumn. However, he also went so far as to predict that Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Switzerland would be invaded. The only countries he went wrong on were Norway, which he failed to include, and Switzerland, which at this writing has not been invaded.

Borah and Roosevelt, though differing on politics, always were warm personal friends. And this was a case where the isolationist Senator differed emphatically. He told the President, "My information is different."

All the other congressional leaders agreed with Borah, and Congress adjourned.

Dean of Men at O. S. U. On Rotary's Program

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park of Ohio State University, who speaks at the Rotary Club meeting next Thursday, is "daddy" to 9,673 men students at the university.

Many of these boys are away from home for the first time, and they turn to Dean Park for friendly advice and assistance in all kinds of difficulties.

Dean Park believes boys of 18 years or older should be assuming responsibilities and learning from experience. Consequently he has set up no long string of rules which students must obey. That, he believes, takes away student initiative and leaves little opportunity for personal decision.
